Hi Kate

I hope your well.

The ducks will be barn reared, unfortunately AI makes free range a risky option.

Apologies for not copying in the other email address on my last two messages.

The dust management plan has no change, I've updated the operating techniques to include Ducks and included ERA.

The farms FCO has worked out the stocking density and numbers for ducks on the attached spreadsheet, this puts the numbers up to 332,000 at 3kg.

He would like to be able to stock that many because our contract farmers no longer want poultry because of the AI risk and we need the numbers to have a supply of birds for the business, let me know your thoughts on that regarding emissions, as I know ducks are much lower than turkeys.

Please let me know if you require any more information.

Have a great weekend.

Kind regards

George

Hi George,

I am just assessing the ammonia impact resulting from the option of rearing ducks at the two farms. For both of the sites, can you confirm whether the ducks will be barn reared or free-range please?

Kind regards
Kate
